Rich History: Planes, Pilots & Air Base Workers showcases remarkable color images taken by renowned photographers Alfred T. Palmer, Howard R. Hollem, John Collier and David Bransby for the Farm Security Administration/Office of War Information (FSA/OWI). Comprised of over seventy digital images derived from original color transparencies, this presentation uncovers a surprisingly vibrant world that had previously been viewed only through black-and-white photographs. These fascinating scenes and portraits depict the aviation industry in the U.S. in the 1940s, with a focus on the airplanes, military pilots and air base employees. The photographs in Rich History, document not only the image subjects, but also the birth of a new era the Kodachrome era. These colorful images mark a significant divide in visual presentation between the monochrome world of the pre-modern age and the brilliant hues of the present. They change the way we look and think about our past.
