The unique combination of Western style text with limited draft illustrations and the Asian Manga graphic style so the reader can experience the meaning of the written word and the visual impact of this series prologue introduction fiction based on factual premises. Human Trafficking is simply a rebranding of the enduring ugly and evil historic enterprise of human enslavement and slavery. Still outlawed and banned in many nations this trade continues as reported by international law enforcement agencies to consume over a million individuals annually, seventy percent women and young boys in the sex trade. This global sex trade market in slaves yields profits to those human trafficking greater than the drug cartels. This fiction is written from the viewpoint of three characters, one a young Japanese girl who is entangled in the most extreme form of enslavement as a exotic human pet, in the animal sex play culture. Her best girl friend left behind now being targeted by the same enslavers. Last the American man who has the personal revelation which brings freedom, salvation to these three along with others trapped as slaves.
