

Olympic Mountains: Bailey Range Traverse

A 10 day journey in photography, in of the most remote areas inside the Olympic Mountains. The Bailey Range crescents Mount Olympus from the east and covers almost the entire length of the Olympic National Park. Our journey takes us through the Sol Duc, Hoh, Queets, Elwha and Quinault river drainage, even crossing many of the glaciers that feed these rivers. We were visited by some of the wildlife that the Park is known for; often grazing with them on mile wide wildberry patches. Come along with us on this epic wilderness off trail backpacking adventure.
