

DIARY OF A SLAVE GIRL, CAMELLIA CASSANDRA (CAPE FEAR, NORTH CAROLINA 1725) (PLANTATIONS and PIRATES)

This is a book written by Camellia Cassandra who is the second born child in a set of QUADRUPLETS which includes two sisters and one brother. The children have moved with their Mammy and Pappy to a new plantation on the Cape Fear River, North Carolina. At first the children, like most children, hate the new location because they have no friends there, and everything is BORING. Things become very interesting, though, after meeting OLE WIDOW BROWN who has a hundred JUMBIE CATS and six poisoned husbands buried under her cabin. Ole Widow Brown practices OBEAH and conducts SECRET CONJURY sessions in her cabin on the river. The adults are unaware that the children go in the dark of night to talk to the SPIRITS OF DEAD PIRATES: Gentleman Pirate Stede Bonnet and Blackbeard were both captured and died in North Carolina several years before. The book sounds scary, but it isnt that scary for very long. It is more FUN and FUNNY as the children make new friends on the new plantation. The book is based on lives of slaves living on plantations in the Carolinas at the time as well as the lives of real PIRATES such as BLACKBEARD, who never killed anyone until his last battle on OCRACOKE ISLAND, NC, and GENTLEMAN STEDE BONNET who was a plantation owner in the Bahamas who bought his own ship and became a PIRATE, though he did not know ANYTHING about SAILING or the SEA.. An epilogue is at the end of the book telling what happened to CAMELLIA CASSANDRA and her boy friend, BARN BOY JESSE, and the other fictional characters after the Diary ended. It is followed by a section on PIRATES including facts about BLACKBEARD, STEDE BONNET, and MARY READ. There is also a section about OBEAH and JUMBIES. The scary parts are few and far between, but the giggles come often as the slave children have FUN with their family and friends. The book is meticulously researched and written by a former elementary and middle school teacher and school librarian..
