

DEATH WISH - The Original Classic Sci-Fi Stories (Science Fiction) By NED LANG and ROBERT SHECKLEY

The Original Classic Sci-Fi Stories (Science Fiction) with ROBERT SHECKLEY Full Biography Compared with a spaceship in distress, going to hell in a handbasket is roomy and slow! Opinions on Sheckley's work Robert Sheckley: the best short-story writer the field has produced. Alan Dean Foster I had no idea the competition was so terrifyingly good. Douglas Adams Sheckley at his best is Voltaire and Soda. Brian W. Aldiss Probably the best short-story writer during the 50s to the mid-1960s working in any field. Neil Gaiman Always he crackles with ideas. Kingsley Amis [Robert Sheckley is] witty and ingenious... a draught of pure Voltaire and tonic. J. G. Ballard Contents 1 THE space freighter Queen Dierdre was a great, 2 HIS instructions read true. And yet he sensed something wrong. 3 SOMERS activated the engines. Acceleration pressed the three men back into their couches, 4 RAJCIK smiled, a courageous, 5 SOMERS frowned at the engineer. 6 THERE was a confusion of voices from the other end. 7 THEY stared at him in vacant astonishment. 8 IM A pretty morbid fellow, Rajcik said carelessly. 9 A LIGHT on the computers panel was flashing green. 10 SOMERS said, You figured a few thousand years to return to the Solar System, Rajcik?
