

Too Great a Burden to Bear: The Struggle and Failure of the Freedmens Bureau in Texas (Reconstructing America (FUP))

In its brief seven-year existence, the Freedmens Bureau became the epicenter of the debate about Reconstruction. Historians have only recently begun to focus on the Bureaus personnel in Texas, the individual agents termed the hearts of Reconstruction. Specifically addressing the historiographical debates concerning the character of the Bureau and its sub-assistant commissioners (SACs), Too Great a Burden to Bear sheds new light on the work and reputation of these agents. Focusing on the agents on a personal level, author Christopher B. Bean reveals the type of man Bureau officials believed qualified to oversee the Freedpeoples transition to freedom. This work shows that each agent, moved by his sense of fairness and ideas of citizenship, gender, and labor, represented the agencys policy in his subdistrict. These men further ensured the former slaves right to an education and right of mobility, something they never had while in bondage.
